Starting questions

- When we see trouble (like a forest fire), what are we likely to do?
- Who would run toward a fire?

Read together Galatians 5:13-6:10

- Paul says that Christians have been set free. What are we NOT to do with our freedom?
- Freedom is NOT just doing what I want. Paul calls “doing what I want” the acts of the flesh. What does he say those are like? (see chapter 5:19-21)
- In being set free, we are free to live in the Spirit. What does Paul say that is like? (see chapter 5:22-26)

The Big Idea

The Spirit in us frees us (and compels us) to serve others (especially Christians) with the hope of a rich harvest in Christ

Reflection Questions for your group

1. What are some of the burdens that people in your group have?
2. What might it look like to carry each other's burdens in healthy ways?
3. What are dangers you want to avoid when you seek to carry each other's burdens? How might you be able to avoid those dangers?
4. What might it look like for a church to be characterized by this kind of love in action? What are some of the dangers? How could we avoid those dangers?
5. Think especially about ways that helping others might hurt them (such as reinforcing laziness, or treating them as children). How would you describe this danger? How can we avoid it?
6. What makes carrying each other's burdens different, and perhaps more challenging, in a diverse community?
7. What might be challenging about receiving help from others? What are some possible temptations? How might we avoid them?
